and low-income students, through the State Higher Education Executive Officers Association and the JED Foundation.

Some proposed new language:

Address recommendations in the 2023 Schools Committee "Purple Paper", the Alliance will determine how suicide prevention, intervention and postvention programs are evaluating implementation effectiveness and focusing on supports for youth and youth-serving staff in pre-kindergarten through college and university levels, with an emphasis on populations of increased relative risk (i.e. youth of color, LGBTQ+, and youth with disabilities).

...and then under various tactics and strategies to address this, the other content you had:

- Inviting student success coordinators
- Partnerships with state higher ed officers, JED foundation
- Asking programs to share their self-evaluation methods and core metrics (who they say they serve, who they actually train, follow-ups, etc.)
